RESERVE BANK UPDATES

ZiGDTDF Second Offer Now Open
30, 60 and 90-Day ZiG Investment Options

Following the successful inaugural issuance of the 90-day ZiG Denominated Term Deposit Facility Bill (ZiGDTDF) on 4 June 2026, the Reserve Bank of Zimbabwe is inviting Banks, Building Societies, Deposit-Taking MFIs, POSB, Corporates and Individuals to subscribe for the second offer of 30, 60 and 90-day ZiGDTDF Bills.
The instrument is now available for 30, 60 and 90 days to give investors more options to save and invest in ZiG.

1 What is the ZiG Denominated Term Deposit Facility Bill (ZiGDTDF)?

- ZiG Denominated Term Deposit Facility Bill (ZiGDTDF) is an RBZ Open Market Operations (OMO) instrument designed to encourage savings and investment on the back of prevailing low and stable inflation guaranteeing positive returns to investors.

2 Why Operationalise this Now?

The timing is opportune given that inflation has declined to single digit levels since January 2026 and sustained below 5% since then.

The ZiG Perceptions and Confidence Survey II showed that Zimbabweans are now keeping ZiG in their bank accounts for longer, reflecting a growing savings culture and stronger demand for value-preserving investments.

3 How Does it Work?

Investors can subscribe for the ZiGDTDF for 30, 60 or 90 days. At maturity, the investment plus interest is paid by RBZ to the investor or rolled over at the discretion of the investor.

1. 30 days 8% Per Annum
2. 60 days 9% Per Annum
3. 90 days 11% Per Annum

4 Who is the Target Market?

The investment opportunity is open to Banks, Building Societies, Deposit-Taking MFIs, POSB, Corporates and Individuals wishing to invest in ZiG.

Minimum subscription amounts have been set for different investor groups as outlined below:

	Targeted Investor	Minimum subscription amounts:
1.	Individuals	ZiG100,000.00
2.	Corporates	ZiG500,000.00
3.	Banks	ZiG10,000,000.00

5 How does this instrument support and sustain the prevailing ZiG stability?

- The facility helps sustain low and stable inflation and strengthen ZiG by encouraging savings in ZiG, offering value-preserving investment options.

6 Why this matters to you

When ZiG is stable, your money keeps its value and prices do not change suddenly. This allows people to plan, save, and invest with confidence. A stable currency supports the overall growth of the economy.
